

Entry, Monday After

Onyxies now return to poetry like an old, worn, waiting, old sentiment hanging off this page like leather all the rest of it, burning my lines of sight and I blur vision, a blur of One about to unfold the animal, a poem, in some something something is about to come is gathering itself along the air, then is waiting in the corner of consciousness like a nightmare unremembered

The Murder Moment

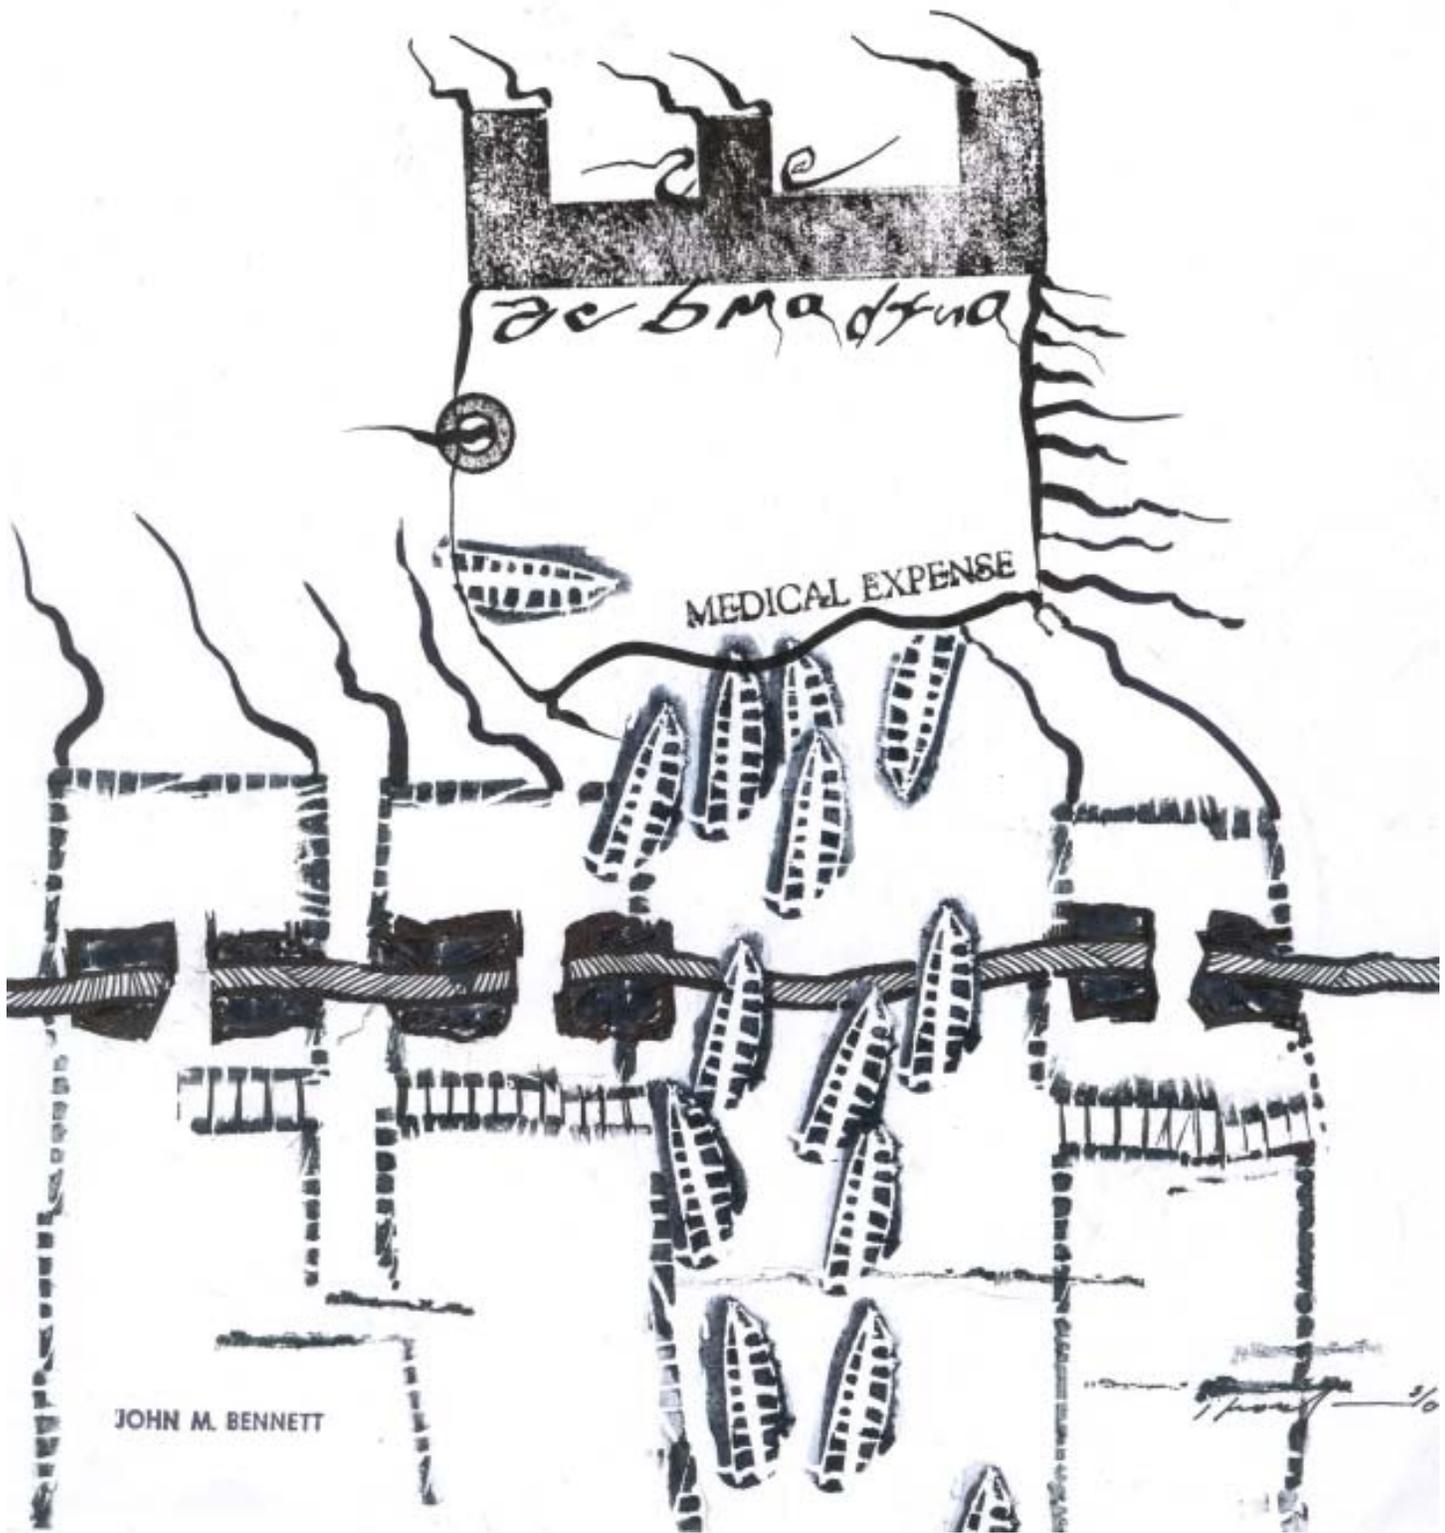

1/10/68

Fifth American Poem

you with you marbled groves your eden's praise & forested loaves your black hills your superior shores your national monuments your sinuous & walk tall endings & shortened trails you with your hiking boots your ears & deadlocks your mile cut your crew & pony-tailed expression you with your knick-knocks & key you with nothing you without repose you with your air your heavy strikes your lapped amusements your underbelly & your sands your many hours in the hands of sergeants & general admit tickets to paradise presumed you with hollow payments & expectations you marooned in the island of language & attitude you with no face you with a thousand ways to kill you with the sheath you with the description you with the prescriptive return you with the terror you with the stained & the soaked you with the mobile piece you with the track & pinioned polls you storing clear of hell you with the open-ended arguments you with the mourning you with the grief you with the stricken parents you who remember the good days & you only with remains of the bad you with you butterfly you with your petridished discoveries you with your bowling-balled days you with your trophies & awards your grants & your lands your scholarships your meritocracies simple in earnest the argument of hours and emptied stare into the evening's darkness you on the riding you in the classroom you with the cut on your lip dreaming of jaguars & snowbirds you restoring each prairie you rebuilding community you at the sporting polluted gymnasium where the soft tic of one outgoing fluorescent light illuminates forgetting you outside history you without mud in your hand you of the airborne division making winged learusian decisions about proximity you without question you who question everything you sans response you lacking answer you with your elbow at the window sill thinking departure & the yellow finch's entire aptitude you who forgot to remember & you who remember all you sitting in the imperative you shifting in the anglican chaise you on your stomach now in the desert learning the difference between practice and real with battle pamphlets in your hands with pamphlets on tribal emergency read between mortars & shells & the burning flesh you'd never smelted you at your desk you at the bank you with your back against the diplomatic wall sipping milk & care you picking apples you trading stocks you wiping the film of crop dust from your sleeve you inhaling systems & beliefs you breathing heavily waging everything on hope you in the green tower you in the meadowlands the bureau the agency a cross in your throat a tongue for your stand you with the impediment of thought you trained to train you of the trained you who understand the skull & bones of secrecy you in the nightmare you waiting for the nudging shove you beating your hands at your head you who grow you with your guts and slapping shores you without children you of the pencil-sharpened days you of the signatory haze you who were fired oh you who are hired oh no one to trump your insistent ways no one to pummel you no one to strip your corner you no one to make of you the very last wall the thicket the wood fox you're without snare you who dare you on the beach you with the bullet you with the peach you who sing the rocket-emboldened blazoned ring you who are terrified noting nothing this is the end of the page. Wake now. You're free.

you can't say the way when I say you're coming you can't say give me a break Harvey the whole Girl Scout thing is all the way with everything or more that the corporate only starts calling you're a prayer when they're about to bury you or to cut out your tongue body is in a warehouse turn you on a goddamn potter wheel you lame now by the way what I say goes that's use I don't see it mean you the one saying go should anyone dislike cocker spaniels for example or a certain kind of dog in order to help secure our country people are going to love the borders with other things so I have to like their god damn are going to break on our parting ways
 I want to save them and I want at least one of them one of the best one of the not the best but I might give this time to stake out on to truth by saying how could I not like Al Capone or Duchamp or playing chess with a black and as if an artist is already people adding and seeing and chiming in this or that about how or or anything else how would anyone dislike Andy Warhol the Girl Scout all like soup cans about to die I want to save them

...this was war again some would stay some would have to go some would wait in jail some would never know when the last whistle of their life would call of that last train or ship or plane pull out and who would be heard (they'd wonder) coming or going as everyone would wonder among all the plans their dreams were with laid a case # and god was a humanitarian judge able to grant a reprieve

Hope

Here are the sleepless nights the ditches of calamity and celebrations We are as common as ruin into which the clock running of the predictable insists love
flows through starts in place

From this collection the rug of thinking penetrates

Here are the days of silent dread and dreams
Here is the poem wasted for all Here are the rocks in the river and love
love
bending
for a just a sip
of something else
